no one man can win a battle by himself but battles have been won and lost because of the strength or failings of one individual the leader what went on in the minds and hearts of a select group of military leaders at critical moments in battle is the theme of this book in leaders and battles w j wood re creates ten battles from history depicting the action in vivid detail the brilliant formations charging horses clanking bayonets the point of view is always that of the commanding officer the particular quality of leadership that won or lost the encounter is very clear for mad anthony wayne at stony point it was courage that won the day for scipio africanus at ilipa it was imagination custer's judgment at the little big horn was definitely in question when the french stormed ratisbon it was the inspiration of lannes that broke the impasse at the battle of bushy run bouquet could never have outwitted pontiac had he lacked flexibility the dynamics of battle as well as the strategy and tactics involved are equally well demonstrated though the means of fighting varied as much as the time and the civilizations involved the lessons learned are just as applicable today men no longer fight with drawn swords make barricades out of mealie bags or use a swarm of bees as a weapon but that is part of this book s fascination leaders and battles is a remarkable retelling of fighting engagements for the armchair strategist the leader in training the history buff and the general reader it will take time before the major wars and low intensity skirmishes of this century can be written about with the historical detachment and understanding that the author displays here in the meantime we can all profit from these lessons of history when faced with complex problems military leaders frequently fail to reach desired strategic outcomes a leader with years of personal experience and a track record of success often runs headlong into a highly complex operational environment and achieves poor results these leaders often consider the situation from only a military perspective and as a consequence arrive at a simplistic understanding of the environment this poor understanding frequently pairs well with biased solutions favored by military institutions even if they generate an innovative approach few leaders possess the capability to achieve buy in from superiors and subordinates to see it through a leader who possesses a gift for strategic understanding paired with a capacity to realize new approaches would be the elusive strategic genius what traits make a strategic genius though several military theorists such as lawrence freedman and colin gray warn that such rare genius may not exist carl von clausewitz contends that such a leader is possible but would require a harmonious combination of several traits while the prussian provides some vague suggestions his description of genius fails to offer tangible characteristics that are relevant to today's operational environment several modern theorists examine how such an individual might think and some offer how this person might lead but few combine these traits to develop the concept of strategic genius as a whole looking at both strategic thinking and strategic leadership through an interdisciplinary lens of complexity science design theory and history this monograph examines how a leader's perspective on problems and style of communication can generate strategic genius rather than prescribing a set of characteristics this work suggests that strategic genius requires a unique combination of diverse perspectives on complex and adaptive environments matched with the compelling courage to recognize and resist personal biases and gain institutional buy in to achieve innovative results rather than searching for how to attain or how to practice strategic genius this monograph simply asks what is strategic genius to this end instead of describing the development of strategic genius this monograph attempts to describe its characteristics in short this work offers the what of strategic genius and only implies how such an ability develops rather than separating concepts of strategic thinking and strategic leadership this monograph attempts to understand the effective combination of both within the same leader this work uses abductive reasoning synthesizing contemporary theories to develop a working hypothesis and then tests this combined theory against two historical case studies the two hundred personalities described in this book have a fair claim to being the most significant in the last thousand years of military history they include warrior kings and sultans field marshals and ministers tribal chiefs and junior officers the majority of the entries are naturally concerned with field commanders but the most influential theorists and administrators men like clausewitz steuben and carnot also qualify for notice inside cover
